

Fast growth at high volume levels

While other major life sciences centres are in decline or are stagnating, the Basel region is the only life sciences hub worldwide showing strong growth at high volume levels. This is mainly due to its strong industrial tradition and a clear focus on innovation.

Contribution of the life sciences industry to economic growth

